From the Principal's Desk

"The key to success is action and the essential in action is perseverance."

-Sun Yat Sen

We live in an era where education is the answer to the world's most pressing problems. Technology, today, promises both wondrous possibilities and profound dislocations with the global forces increasingly shaping our lives and work. Traditional intellectual fields are shifting and converging, and public expectations and demands of higher education are intensifying. With such a shift in the education and professional world, the only two things that seem to be elemental in the definition of a character are hard work and perseverance.

Thomas Edison failed approximately ten thousand times while he was working on the light bulb and yet he never dreamt of giving up – such hard work and perseverance mark a true success. Indeed, success is not measured by the position that you are in today but the amount of hard work you had put in to overcome your obstacles. It is easy to give up when times get hard but the endless fight put up to reach our aspirations displays our perseverance. It means not giving up when the task reaches a difficulty level you did not believe it would.

Persevering through something builds character. It is a form of testing yourself to see how far you can go. It demonstrates the strength of an individual and can prove one's capability to one's own self. Once the goal is actually achieved, the sense of accomplishment is empowering. Completing a simple task brings contentment, but a fight through the obstacles with all the zealous effort brings pride.

With this thought, I congratulate all my diligent students for their remarkable performances in the 2018 AISSCE and AISSE Board Examinations. This achievement would not have been possible without the incessant support of the parent community and we look forward to such integrated performances in future too. I also whole-heartedly congratulate the staff for their consistent efforts in drawing the best out of the students and help them perform exceedingly well.

Our hearts swell with pride in the feats of our students and we have compiled the highlights of the Class X and Class XII Board exam results for each one of us to marvel at.
