

Library/Wordsmiths Club Report May 2024

Book Talk on Ruskin Bond

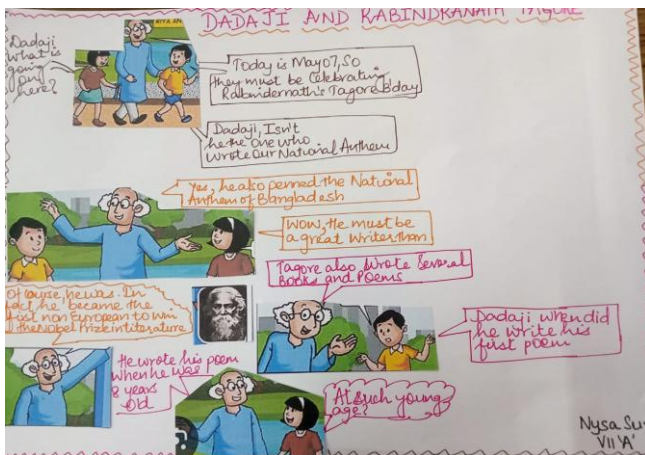

The Wordsmiths Club organized an engaging book talk for class VI and VII students, centred around the renowned author Ruskin Bond. Students and faculty alike delved into the rich tapestry of Bond's literary world, discussing themes of nature, childhood innocence, and the timeless charm of his storytelling. The event served as a delightful exploration of Bond's enduring legacy, igniting a passion for literature among the students.

Comic Strip Designing

The Wordsmiths Club orchestrated a creative endeavour celebrating the iconic figure of Rabindranath Tagore through a comic strip designing activity for class VIII and IX students. Students delved into Tagore's multifaceted life and works, infusing their strips with elements of his profound philosophy, literary genius, and cultural impact. The event served as a vibrant platform for students to showcase their artistic flair while paying homage to Tagore's enduring legacy as a poet, philosopher, and visionary.

Student Edge Newspaper

In this month's student Edge newspaper, two of our students' works were chosen to be published. The names of the students are:

Aarna Mangla(IX- C) and Gurpreet(X- A).

HEROES AROUND US

In the quiet corners where shadows dance,
In silent rooms, with every glance,
Not caring who thinks or if they know,
Not caring who looks or who they know,
In hospitals, where healing hands extend,
In classrooms where dreams take flight,
In every place where the darkest hour
Brings hope, reaching for power.

Teachers, shaping futures, minds they mold,
In silent generations, beams of gold,
In classrooms where dreams take flight,
In every corner of student's heart.

In every where kindness finds its way,
In every heart, in every they display,
In every smile, a beacon bright,
In every act, a symphony resounds,
In every moment, spreading light.

In homes where love's embrace fields light,
In every heart, in every act of might,
In every moment, a love resounds,
In every heart, a symphony resounds,
In every moment, spreading light.

Autumn

When the leaves are red, yellow, and orange,
and the air is humid too,
The forest covered with leaves,
of every colour you know.

The fall of leaves
is a work of art,
The colour changing leaves are the most beautiful part.

The acorns and pine cones growing on the trees,
and squirrels munching
on their feast.

The moments fluttering here and there,
Do the leaves bring new colours,
It's my favourite time of the year,
And the napping season is here!

STARRY STARRY

Starry, starry night,
Dipper just above the wall,
A big red moon in the sky,
And the twinkling stars in the sky.
