Our Inclusive Education Club recently organized two delightful activities for special children: a fireless cooking session and a Christmas card-making workshop. The children enthusiastically participated, creating no-bake cupcakes using simple ingredients like biscuits, milk, and colorful toppings. They also crafted adorable, festive cards with colorful papers, glitter, and stickers, guided by their teachers. These activities fostered creativity, enhanced motor skills, and brought immense joy to everyone involved. It was a heartwarming experience that beautifully showcased the importance of inclusion and the power of hands-on learning.
